

Stallergenes Recall

As requested by the French Health Authority (ANSM), manufacturing activities and distribution of products manufactured by Stallergenes SAS at the Antony (France) plant have been temporarily suspended as of 2nd December 2015.

Manufacturing activities of Stallergenes Greer in the U.S. are not impacted by this suspension. This decision from the ANSM follows observations made regarding problems encountered in the implementation on August 13, 2015 of a new IT system, which resulted in operational disruptions, supply shortage and some incorrect product deliveries.

Stallergenes is proceeding with a recall of certain allergy immunotherapy products which were shipped from its Antony (France) plant after August 13, 2015. Oralair in the US is not currently impacted by this recall as the product was shipped to the US before August 13, 2015. There are sufficient stocks to cover current needs in the US.

In other countries, the appropriate course of action will be discussed and agreed upon with each national Health Authority.

For more information, please look at our website:

<http://stallergenesgreer.com/recall-of-allergy-immunotherapy-products/>

<http://stallergenesgreer.com/stallergenes-greer-announces-a-temporary-suspension-of-manufacturing-at-its-stallergenes-antony-plant/>